Dear Patty,

I am happy to help you re: Koumjians. They were cousins of my mother and us. Rose's maternal grandmother and my maternal grandmother were sisters, so we were all cousins. Koumjians never had any other relatives in this country except us. Once, after both of Rose's parents and her much older sister Alice had died, Rose asked me if I knew what year her parents came to this country. She told me she had never asked them! I did not know and could not give her any dates.

Rose's dad Peter Koumjian and my dad played tavloo every time our families visited. Rose's mother, whom we called Auntie Makerie (Margaret), was a very good cook.

I hope your European trip is going well. Enjoy!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Lots of love,
Aunt Betty

Dear Aunt Betty and Barbara,

Thank you for sharing this. Can you please remind me of any relationship between you and Rose. Of course I have known her all my life, but at the moment can't remember where, if anywhere the Koumjians fit in the family. Were they cousins or friends?

If I were at home I would look it up, but here in Europe I can't do this.

Love,

Patty

Subject: Rose Essick's Obituary

Dear Family,

Just found this obit online in the Burbank Leader. We still don't know anything about her last days or cause of death. There was a nice picture, too, that I couldn't copy. I found it by googling Burbank obituaries.

Love to all,
Betty (written by Barbara)

Rose Essick

Longtime Burbank resident Rose Essick died April 11, 2015. She was 91.

Rose Lydia Koumjian was born May 28, 1923, to Margaret and Peter Koumjian at home in Hollywood. She attended Valley View Elementary School, Le Conte Junior High School and Hollywood High School, and earned her bachelor's degree from UCLA.

After graduation, Rose was working as a "demonstration" teacher at UCLA when she was recruited to teach fourth grade at Emerson Elementary School in Burbank. During that time, she met and married John Essick. In 1951, they bought a home in Burbank, and Rose lived there until her death.

Rose loved Burbank. She taught at Emerson for nine years, retiring when her first child was born, but continued volunteering in an after-school program called Released Time. She played tennis for many years at the Burbank Tennis Center and was a member of the Burbank University Women.

Rose loved her country. Her parents were Christian Armenians who escaped the Armenian genocide by immigrating to the United States in 1906. Every Thanksgiving, Peter recounted the story of arriving with his young bride at Ellis Island on Thanksgiving Day and reminded his family how fortunate they were to live in "this land of opportunity."

Rose's father also instilled in her a love of the outdoors. As a child, she accompanied her parents on many camping trips to Yosemite National Park. After she married, the family camped all over the United States. Rose and John traveled extensively before his death in 1997.

Rose was a faithful Christian and an active member of First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood for almost 70 years. She taught junior high Sunday school with her husband for more than 35 years.

Rose is survived by her son John and his wife, Katie, of Portland, Oregon, their children, Eden of Brooklyn, N.Y., Wade of Portland and Devon of Portland; and son Peter and his wife, Jackie, of Stone Mountain, Georgia, and their son, Jalen.

Rose was beloved by her family and friends. Her family is thankful for her friends, including those who helped her remain independent until her death: Phyllis Maske, Carole Collard, Carolyn Franzle and Omar Batayneh, all of Burbank, and her physician, Dr. Mark Gerard.

A private family burial at Forest Lawn in Glendale will be followed by a memorial service at First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 30.

Contributions in Rose's memory may be made to the Rose Essick Youth Fund, First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, 1760 N. Gower St., Hollywood, CA 90028.
